Hungary's cyber security takes the 19th spot on the International Telecommunication Union ranking. This is a significant improvement from two years ago when the country's cyber-security measures ranked 51st on the same list. "Hungary is no worse than any other country in Europe" when it comes to cyber security, said Balázs Bencsik, head of Hungary's Cyber Security Institute. However, the training of Hungary's cyber-security experts needs to be improved, Bencsik added.
