The Paris Court Hotel Budapest has been close for renovations for two years now, but with construction work in the final stages, the building is due to reopen soon. It will do so as part of The Unbound Collection by Hyatt brand. Paris Court Hotel was built over a century ago in a style of elegance and style, featuring an iconic shopping passageway beneath a glass cupola and façade made up of 250,000 pieces of Zsolnay ceramics. The company Mellow Mood Hotels is the investor behind this ongoing project. The company is also working on a 180-room hotel on Paulay Ede Street in the 6th district.
